LESSON 56

Review the material from the previous lessons using the soundletter deck, the high-frequency word deck, and the dry-erase boards.

New material: Open and closed syllables

Your student has just learned that the silent e changes the vowel to its long sound where the vowel says its name. The vowel also most often says its name in "open" syllables. An "open" syllable ends with a vowel, whereas a "closed" syllable ends with one or more consonants. So far we have mostly been working with "closed" syllables.

wet	we
met	me
hot	ho
got	go
got it	I
sod	SO
job	Jo
pot	ро
hit	hi
pup	pu
stud	stu
rat	ra

Compare closed and open syllables:

When a word has only one consonant between two vowels, the first syllable is most likely (about 75% likely) to end with an open vowel. When reading a word we don't know, we should first try to break up the word making the first syllable open. See examples below:

taken:	ta	ken
climax:	cli	max
bacon:	ba	con
Steven:	Ste	ven
Mavis:	Ma	vis

When there are two consonants between the vowels, blends may be sticking together in such a way that the first syllable still remains open and the vowel makes its long sound. (Thus it's not prog/ram, but pro/gram, and it's not frag/rant, but fra/grant. Sounding out words with open syllables will be quite challenging at first but will get easier with time and practice reading and writing these words.

Read and write more words that begin with an open syllable:

basic pretend begin stupid humid stolen music locust open raven focus relax crisis virus secret student broken prevent bonus moment even protect program dilute digress evil trident fragrant frequent

In a much smaller percentage of words (about 25%) in which there is a single consonant between the vowels, the first syllable will be closed and short in sound:

seven:	sev	en

robin: _____rob_____ in_____

Alan:	Al	an

habit: habit

limit: _____lim_____it____

Read and write words that begin with a closed syllable:

finish blemish panic static driven model devil chisel

Read and write words that end with an open syllable:

hippo tempo banjo bingo condo menu Wi-Fi oregano gizmo casino mosquito (i has the long "e" sound) broccoli (i has the long "e" sound) Mexico hello also solo tofu

Introduce the new high-frequency words you have written onto flashcards. Have the student write the high-frequency words three times while pronouncing the words:

poor, door, floor<sup>1</sup>

Have the student read:

Bill likes an up-tempo tune to jog with.

The climax of the tale was when the poor student's bike was stolen.

JoJo pretended that a lack of bacon with her pancakes was a crisis. "Is there no more bacon?" she asked with a fake sob.

The student opened the test. She was glad to find that Ms. Liz had put a bonus problem at the end.

Lucas likes tofu, Rachel likes chicken, and I like both chicken and tofu.

Mopping the floor was a frequent task because of the pup and her messes.

One method of preventing wild fires is to dispose of any brush that sits close to homes, sheds, or cabins.

Have the student write from your dictation:

"Pick up your pens, open your vocab quiz, and begin," Ms. Novak said.

Music helps pass the time while Ed bakes the cupcakes.

Crickets and locusts make music that LuAnn likes.

Simon told me a secret.

In the pandemic, people were told to isolate indoors if they had been exposed to the virus.

The moment he opened the door, Gil saw the big box of frosted donuts on the teacher's desk.

Review the three syllable types your student now knows:

Closed: The vowel is "closed off" with a consonant and makes its short sound, as in "rat."

Open: The vowel is not "closed off" and makes its long sound as in "be."

Silent e: The vowel makes its long sound (says its name) when it is followed by a consonant and a silent e as in "bake."

With your help, the student can count the syllables and identify the syllable types in the following words: isolate, absolute, populist, stimulus, daffodil, coconut, pretending, relocate.

i so late	(open, open, silent e )
ab so lute	(closed, open, silent e)
pop u list	(closed, open, closed)
stim u lus	(closed, open, closed)
daff o dil	(closed, open, closed)
co co nut	(open, open, closed)
pre tend ing	(open, closed, closed)
re lo cate	(open, open, silent e )
de fined	(open, silent e )
sev en	(closed, closed)
e lev en	(open, closed, closed)

Use the whiteboard to show how to write a multisyllable word from dictation. First, the student will say the word and count the syllables. For example, the word "un/pro/grammed" has three beats or syllables.

The student will draw three lines on the whiteboard, one for each beat:

Then, the student will write in each syllable, knowing that each space has a vowel (or a vowel with silent e):

un	pro	grammmed

post	pone		ment
dip	lo	mat	ic
sulke	ed
sev	en
de	men	ted _
ro	man	tic

Choose any of the stories in Group 2 (Silent-E Stories) or Group 1 (Short-Syllable Stories) for a "triple read."
